

VIOLENCE MARKS RETURN OF MINERS

Homes of Men Friendly to Companies Are Dynamited, Following Threats.

PRODUCTION IS 'RESUMED'

Union Expected to Stand by Its Agreement at Stormy Meeting To-day.

Special to THE SUN and NEW YORK HERALD.
WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 13.—The homes of six Pittston mine workers friendly to the Pennsylvania Coal Company have been dynamited during the past two weeks and many Pittston people believe that certain coal strikers are trying to institute a reign of terror to add force to their protests against the so-called "contractor system." A number of workers who would like to abandon their "vacation" and return to work have been openly charged that the strikers have tried to intimidate them by threatening to blow up the homes of all men who went back into the mines.

In addition to the explosions which damaged the houses, the strikers or their sympathizers have blown up a railroad track and a mine motor. The latest outrage was an explosion of dynamite last night in the rear of the Russell Williams apartments in Pittston, where a suite of rooms is occupied by Steve Latoro, one of the contractors of the Pennsylvania Coal Company.

Latoro's brother-in-law, Detective Sam Luchino, was murdered soon after the strike began. The home of Steve La-toro's father, Samuel, was dynamited last week. Other miners whose homes have been blown up are Michael Condon, John Booth, George Memory and Frank Apostol.

The mine motor was destroyed at No. 14 and the railroad track was at the Pine Ridge colliery of the D. and H. Company.

Denounced From Pulpits.

As a result of the explosion last night clergymen in the various Pittston churches to-day demanded that all men who do not return to work should be driven out of the town and who do not contemplate dynamiting go back to work and refuse to be cowed by men with "Bolshevik and Socialist hearts." They declared that men who would change conditions in this country through the use of dynamite should go to a country where they would be better satisfied or sent there.

Advices from Scranton this afternoon were that reports around the headquarters of the mine workers said that the vacation movement, so far as it concerns Lackawanna county, will soon be a thing of the past. Indications are that many of the men now out will resume work in the mines there during the coming week.
This change of position is due largely to the announcement, made by union leaders, of the meeting of the policy committee in Hazleton to-morrow and to the report that there was a good chance of securing further concessions from the operators. The majority of the miners of the Delaware and Hudson and the Hibernia Coal and Iron Company in the upper end of the county are still operating, the men being undisturbed by the insurgent leaders who are sponsoring the vacation movement. The sentiment is strongly against returning to work, and special colliery local union meetings have been arranged for tomorrow night.

Strikers Would Halt Meeting.

Strikers will do all in their power to prevent the meeting of English speaking miners in the Pittston State Armory to-morrow night. The Lehigh Valley men met last night at Muhlenberg. Their session was well attended. By unanimous vote they decided to live up to the promise entered into by them several months ago that they would abide by the commission's award. This action by the Lehigh Valley men wiped out the "vacation" in the Susquehanna division of that company. With the Henry colliery operating, all miners in the Susquehanna branch will be engaged in production.

The Brotherhood union men by their action in voting to resume work at once were among the first of the "vacation" men on the upper west side to go back.
They are employed in the mines in Muhlenberg, Broderick, Susquehanna and Laserre, where the strike has been particularly effective. Their action will have a powerful influence on the local officials who are to attend the policy meeting at Hazleton to-morrow.

The District 3 officials will fight for a return to work, and the general impression here is that the leaders of 7 and 9 districts will do likewise, since they not only advocated the commission at the convention last May but signed the contract resulting last week. The local officials pay no attention to the argument that "officials who do not call a strike should not attempt to call it off." They are working on the basis that when they signed a contract they are obligated to see that it is carried out.

hundreds of persons followed in a long procession. Many of the women wept.

Dr. McGuire was born in the Bronx, where his father, John N., a Scotch iron worker, and his mother, who was Mary Harrington, were pioneer settlers. He was educated in The Bronx public schools, was graduated from City College in 1878 and received his medical degree from New York University Medical College in 1882.

As a Commissioner of Schools, to which position he was appointed in 1903, he met Florence O'Sullivan, then a teacher at Public School 27, St. Ann's avenue, and 147th street. She became his wife.

For many years Dr. McGuire practiced in the lower Bronx, but eight years ago he moved to the Fordham section, where he built a home, which is pointed out as one of the prettiest in that part of the borough. In addition to a large practice he made many successful real estate investments. His fortune is said to amount to close to $1,000,000. He was a man of striking physical appearance.

Mr. Howley was a brother of Dr.
William E. Howley of 191 Alexander avenue. He is survived by three daughters and two sons, ranging in age from fourteen to twenty-four years. He was born in Greenwich, Conn.

There were three of the McGuire sisters. Besides Mrs. Anna Howley there were Mrs. Lillie Hynes and Mrs. E. P.
Higgins.

Dog Dies With Mistress.

A poodle dog, which for years had been the pet of Mrs. Mary Hyland of 69 St. Francis street, Newark, lay down and died with her yesterday morning when the woman killed herself by inhale-ing illuminating gas. The body of the pet was stretched on the floor alongside of the bed where Mrs. Hyland's body rested.

TWO DIE, ALSO MAN THEY TRY TO RESCUE

Overcome by Gas and Drown in Vault in Nutley, N. J.

Three men were overcome by gas and drowned yesterday in a cesspool at the home of Angela Iselin in Center street, Nutley, N. J. The vault became blocked and was backing into the cellar. Iselin called Anthony Lordi of 188 Bloomfield avenue, foreman of a contracting firm, and asked him to find what the trouble was.

Lordi took off the top of an overflow pool connected with the main pool and lowered himself into the vault. Immediately he called for help, and Iselin went to his rescue. The latter also was overcome. Frank Jannarone of 11 Harrison street, a contractor, entered the cesspool to save Lordi and Iselin and he too was overcome. Joseph Onofio of 18 Florence street, got a rope and pulled out Jan-narone.

The police and fire departments of Nutley were notified, and the two men
